Port Huron Man Dies In Crash

A multiple-fatal accident Saturday near Mt. Pleasant claimed the life of a Port Huron man and critically injure another when their car was involved in a head-on crash.

Gary M. Kidd, 21, of 2635 Tenth Avenue, a passenger in a car driven by Gregory McGill, 23, of 3445 Walnut Street was killed.

Mr. McGill suffered severe head injuries, multiple rib fractures and both of his legs were broken.

Late Saturday, he was undergoing treatment in St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, where his condition was reported critical.

State Police said a passenger in the second car involved in the accident, Michael Foster, 22, Clare, also was killed and the driver, Raymond Bush, 28, Mt. Pleasant, was treated for minor injuries.

Officer Robert Flaughter, Mt. Pleasant State Police, said the accident occurred about 7 a.m. And Mr. McGill drove west and Mr. Bush drove east on M-20 about five miles south of Mt. Pleasant.

He said both cars were demolished.

The front of the McGill car was driven back against the rear seat.

He said the cause of the accident is being investigated.

OFFICERS SAID McGill and Kidd reportedly were driving to Central Michigan University when the accident occurred.

Mr. Kidd was born Aug. 19, 1945 in Detroit and has lived in Port Huron since 1949.

He was a student at Port Huron Junior College and worked part-time at Nichol's Pure Station.

He was a former player in the Little League and Minor Hockey Association.
